Minimum bowl payout raised by $200,000

The Association's Administrative Committee has approved an increase of $200,000, or $100,000 for each team, in the minimum payout for postseason bowls to gain NCAA certification.

The new minimum will increase the total team payout for each bowl to $1.2 million beginning in 1990-91.

In addition, the committee approved a $50,000 increase in the team payout for each of the three years following the 1990-91 bowl season, which would raise the per-team payout to $750,000 by 1993-94.

The Administrative Committee acted on a recommendation from the Special Events Committee. That committee's postseason football subcommittee proposed the increase in team payout.

Meanwhile, the Football Bowl Association has taken steps to standardize postseason bowl activities and operations overall.

Early this summer, the bowl association plans to distribute an operating manual to "provide consistency in activities from one bowl to another," according to Steven J. Hatchell, executive director of the Orange Bowl Committee and chair of the bowl association.

The association has scheduled a June 4 meeting in Dallas to make final revisions in the manual.

Work on the manual has been under way for about 12 months. It will be the first such publication for the bowl association.

The manual will include sections on NCAA activities regarding bowl certification, regulations on game negotiations, institutional eligibility rules, financial administration, media guidelines, the team-selection process, sponsorships and advertisements, and insurance coverage.

Hatchell also said the association intends to standardize awards to players and provide a consistency of activities among the bowls.

"We are getting much closer as an association than ever before," Hatchell said. "We needed to be on the same page; we want to be more uniform and stronger. We also think the new manual will give a good perspective to the institutions that bowls are keeping up to date when it comes to doing good business."

The bowl association also plans

Executive Committee enlarges officiating improvement plans

Actions on officiating programs, team-ineligibility issues related to championships drug testing and recommendations from sports committees highlighted the May 1 meeting of the NCAA Executive Committee in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Originally set to meet for two days, the group adjourned early after completing its business.

Continued officiating improvement in several NCAA sports was made possible by Executive Committee approval of recommendations to make permanent what had been pilot programs for men's ice hockey and men's lacrosse, effective with the 1989-90 academic year.

In addition, the Executive Committee approved implementation of pilot officiating improvement programs for baseball and wrestling, effective with the 1990-91 academic year. Both programs will be similar to those made permanent, as mentioned above, and to the officiating improvement programs for men's and women's basketball that began a few years ago.

The latter programs also received Executive Committee attention.

Approved was a recommendation that a meeting for all Division I supervisors of women's basketball officials be conducted later this year. A similar meeting for supervisors of men's basketball officials has been held in recent years with positive results.

Also approved by the Executive Committee were several joint recommendations made by the Basketball Officiating Committee, including:

- That enforcement of the published bench-decorum rule be made a condition for a conference's officials to be considered for selection to work games in the Division I championships.

- That the Men's and Women's Basketball Rules Committees consider amending current playing rules to provide for a coach's ejection from a game after receiving a second technical foul, effective for the 1990-91 season. Currently, ejection is mandated after three technicals.

- That attendance requirements and penalties for noncompliance with those requirements that were utilized for the 1988-89 program be applied to the 1989-90 program.

- That the national coordinator of basketball officiating and the secretary-rules editor of the Women's Basketball Rules Committee be authorized to communicate directly with supervisors of officials and conference representatives if any aspect of officiating deviates from the standards and requirements of the national officiating programs or the basketball rules—including the

NCAA continues effort to reduce TV beer ads

The NCAA will continue to seek a reduction, possibly leading to total elimination, of beer commercials in its telecasts despite published reports to the contrary, according to Executive Director Richard D. Schultz.

Schultz reiterated the Association's position in a letter this week to Harold A. Shoup, executive vice-president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies Inc.

In its April 17 issue, Advertising Age reported that Schultz "appears ready to drop his proposed ban of beer commercials in postseason tournament telecasts" because of pressure from beer marketers.

"Industry sources say Mr. Schultz's about-face probably stemmed from opposition by the brewing industry and college athletics directors," Advertising Age reported.

Following the publication of the article, Shoup in a letter to Schultz said, "We applaud your decision to continue to allow beer advertising on tournament broadcasts."

In responding to Shoup, Schultz said, "To restate our position, we never have said that we were going to ban beer commercials from our telecasts. We said we were going to look seriously at that possibility, as well as at reducing the number and type of announcements. We have told the beer advertisers that we would be willing to allow them to use moderation or educational announcements and have not changed our position since then.

"Our concern remains the same," Schultz told Shoup. "We agree that there is a right to market legal products. Beer is a legal product for those of legal drinking age, but it is an illegal product for those below the drinking age. A large percentage of college students is below the drinking age, as are most high school students.

"Since we do have a very strict drug-testing program in effect, as well as a drug-education program, we are concerned that our telecasts may send out mixed messages.

"These are the points being reviewed, and we will continue to (review them) throughout the negotiation of this next contract," Schultz said.

Advertising Age said in its article, "Should Mr. Schultz decide to push for the ban despite pressure from schools, the networks that bid for the TV rights package (to the NCAA basketball championship) will have a tough decision to make: whether to reject the proposal and risk losing the contract or to accept it and use it to negotiate lower rights fees because of the loss of revenue."

Going up

Work is underway on the second level of the new seven-floor NCAA headquarters building in Overland Park, Kansas. Looking to the northwest, many of the structure's neighboring buildings along the College Boulevard corridor are visible. Thanks to good weather, construction of the Association's new headquarters remains on schedule, according to Richard D. Hunter, NCAA director of operations. Final drawings for the building's interior are nearing completion, and occupancy of the 154,000-square-foot building currently is expected in January 1990.

Candidates for CWS to get close look

More people will be involved in selecting this year's 48-team NCAA Division I Baseball Championship field and they will have more information at their disposal than before.

The nine-man NCAA Division I Baseball Committee will meet May 21 at the NCAA national office to select and seed the teams for the tournament. The committee is composed of three athletics directors and six coaches.

Last year, a six-member committee selected the field during a telephone conference.

"For the first time, all the members of the Division I Baseball Committee will meet at one site and sit across the table from each other when they make selections," said Dennis L. Poppe, NCAA director of championships and staff liaison to the Division I Baseball Committee.

"We will employ many of the procedures that are used by the Division I Men's Basketball Committee, including RPI (rating percentage index). And the committee also will be available for a press conference the next day."

Coaches whose teams are participating in conference tournaments and cannot attend the selection meeting will confer by means of a telephone hookup.

A 120-page computer printout of team statistics, including power ratings, schedules, scores and records, will be more up-to-date this year, according to James F. Wright, NCAA assistant director of communications and media coordinator for the 1989 College World Series.

Last year's computerized compilation of team statistics did not include games played during the two weeks before the committee selected the teams. Thus, statistics from some conference tournaments were missing.

This year, the printout will contain information on games played through May 17. The committee also will receive information on games played during the four days before the committee meets, although it will not be compiled by computer.

The Division I championship field will include 27 automatic qualifiers that are conference champions and 21 teams selected at large. Conference champions must be named by May 21 to ensure automatic qualifying privileges.

At 1:05 p.m. Sunday, May 22, a news conference announcing the 48-team field will be televised from the studio of WDAF-TV in Kansas City, Missouri. The selection show will be available on Spacenet 1, transponder 3H (channel 5). Audio is both 6.2 and 6.8.

to establish a Postseason Football Joint Grievance Committee composed of representatives of the NCAA and the bowl group.

"It is intended that the committee will meet twice a year," Hatchell said, "and it will give any school or bowl with a problem a place to go for a hearing."

Among its tentative duties, the joint committee would be empowered to suspend a bowl from membership in the Football Bowl Association for a period of not less than a year if it is found that the bowl has failed to fulfill its contractual obligations to an institution.

Legislative Assistance

1989 Column No. 18

NCAA Bylaw 17—student-athlete participation on outside teams and in out-of-season, noncollegiate, amateur competition

NCAA member institutions are reminded that for certain team sports, Division I member institutions may permit no more than the following number of student-athletes with eligibility remaining to practice or compete out of season on an outside team without such activities being considered contrary to the restrictions on out-of-season practice: baseball—four (during the academic year), field hockey—five, lacrosse—five, soccer—six (all divisions), softball—four, volleyball—two and water polo—four (during the academic year). All divisions are reminded that only one student-athlete from a member institution's football team may practice or compete as a member of an outside amateur football team outside the playing season; further, no member of the athletics department from the institution in which such a student-athlete is enrolled may be involved with the team in any way (e.g., coach, official). According to Bylaw 17.02.9, an outside team is any team that does not represent the intercollegiate athletics program of the member institution or a team that includes individuals other than eligible student-athletes of the member institution (e.g., members of the coaching staff, ineligible student-athletes, members of the faculty).

The Division I subcommittee of the NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee recently reviewed the application of the provisions of Bylaws 17.02.12, 17.1.4 and 17.23.2 to a situation in which an institution's coach and a student-athlete from the same institution are involved as player and coach on an outside team other than during the permissible playing and practice season. The subcommittee noted that normally an institution's coach and a student-athlete from the same institution would be precluded from participating on the same outside team other than during the permissible playing and practice season; however, as exceptions to this general principle, the subcommittee:

1. Confirmed that a basketball coach and a basketball student-athlete from the same institution may participate in state or national multisport events sanctioned by the NCAA; further, no more than two student-athletes from the same institution may participate on the same team under these circumstances.

2. Confirmed that a coach and a student-athlete from the same institution may participate in sports other than basketball in state or national multisport events sanctioned by the NCAA; further, that for certain sports subject to season segment limitations per Bylaw 17.1.4, a limit on the number of student-athletes with eligibility remaining who may practice or compete on an outside team applies (see above).

3. Determined that a basketball coach and a basketball student-athlete from the same institution may participate on a sanctioned basketball foreign tour involving an outside or all-star team; further, that the limits of Bylaw 17.23.2 apply, and an institutional foreign tour would occur if more than two student-athletes participate on the same team under these circumstances.

4. Determined that a coach and a student-athlete from the same institution may participate in sports other than basketball in sanctioned foreign competition involving an outside or all-star team (e.g., a team sponsored by a conference or national sports governing body); further, that the limits of Bylaw 17.23.2 apply, and an institutional foreign tour in the sport would occur if more than the number of student-athletes specified in that bylaw participate on the same team under these circumstances.

5. Determined that a coach and a student-athlete from the same institution may participate in Olympic and national-team development programs and competition (as a coach and participant, respectively); further, there are no limitations on the number of student-athletes from the same institution who may participate under these circumstances.

6. Determined that a coach (even if the coach is a participant in the competition) would not be included in the limitations of Bylaw 17.23.2 in Nos. 1 through 5 above, noting that these limitations relate only to student-athletes.

NCAA Bylaw 13.3.1—permissible recruiting materials/conference press guides

Divisions I and II member institutions are reminded that in providing an annual athletics press guide and/or an annual athletics recruiting brochure to prospects and high school and two-year college coaches, only one color of printing inside the covers may be utilized.

In this regard, member conferences are reminded of a previous NCAA Council-approved interpretation stipulating that conference media (press) guides and brochures are subject to the one-color-of-printing restrictions of Bylaw 13.3.1.

NCAA Bylaw 12.5.1.5 and 12.5.1.6—student-athletes promoting summer camps

As set forth in Bylaw 12.5.1.5, a member institution's summer camp may use the name or picture of any student-athlete employed as a counselor to publicize or promote the camp, including the use of the athlete's name or picture in camp brochures or other advertising. Further, Bylaw 12.5.1.6 stipulates that a privately owned summer camp may use a student-athlete's name, picture and institutional affiliation in its summer-camp brochure to identify the student-athlete as a staff member. However, the student-athlete's name or picture may not be used in any other way to directly advertise or promote the camp. Additionally, according to Bylaw 13.12.2.1.1.1, a student-athlete with remaining eligibility is not permitted to conduct his or her own camp or clinic.

Bylaw 13.3.3.1 includes a general prohibition against the purchase of advertising space by a member institution in publications designed to provide information concerning the athletics participation or evaluation of prospective student-athletes. Although this prohibition would extend generally to advertisements regarding member institutions' summer camps or clinics, advertisements of an institution's summer camp or clinic in such recruiting publications are permissible if placed in a periodical that includes a camp directory that meets the following requirements: (1) The size (not to exceed one-half page) and format of such advertisements must be identical, and (2) the camp directory must include multiple listings of summer camps on each page (i.e., at least two summer-camp advertisements of the same size must appear on each page). Accordingly, a full-page advertisement for a member institution's summer camp or clinic would not be considered an appropriate listing in a camp directory.

Finally, the NCAA Administrative Committee has affirmed that the distribution of summer-camp brochures to prospective student-athletes and high school coaches would not be precluded per Bylaw 13.3.1, inasmuch as these brochures are not intended for the purpose of serving as recruiting aids; however, the distribution of summer-camp posters to prospective student-athletes or high school coaches would be prohibited since such a poster does promote the recruiting interests of the institution and generally contains no additional information beyond that set forth in the summer-camp brochure.

NCAA Bylaws 14.02.6 and 16.8.1.3—clarification of 1989 Column No. 15 (April 12, 1989)

As a result of a transcription error, a clarification of a previous Legislative Assistance column (reference: 1989 Column No. 15, April 12, 1989, Item No. 2, titled NCAA Bylaws 14.02.6 and 16.8.1.3—definition of intercollegiate competition/seasons of competition and permissible expenses) is necessary. The Legislative Assistance column read:

"According to a previous NCAA Council-approved interpretation, 'collegiate competition' would encompass all individual events within a particular collegiate meet, which in turn would include any 'open' event in the meet that might involve collegiate competitors."

The corrected provision should read: "... which in turn would include any 'open' event in the meet that might involve noncollegiate competitors."

NCAA Bylaw 16.4.1-(h)—rehabilitation expenses for nonqualifiers and partial qualifiers

The Divisions I and II subcommittees of the NCAA Legislation and Interpretations Committee recently reviewed the provisions of Bylaws 16.4.1-(h) and 16.4.2-(b) and (c) and previous Council-approved interpretations to consider whether rehabilitation expenses are permissible for nonqualifiers and partial qualifiers injured as a result of participation in activities unrelated to athletics while serving their initial year in residence at the certifying institution. The subcommittees determined that such rehabilitation expenses may be provided by the institution to nonqualifiers and partial qualifiers if the rehabilitation activities are necessary to enable the individual eventually to participate in intercollegiate athletics. It should be noted, however, that according to Bylaw 16.4.2-(b), surgical expenses to treat a student-athlete's illness or injury that was not a result of practice for or participation in intercollegiate athletics at the institution may not be financed by the institution.

If an institution has a question it would like to have answered in this column, the question should be directed to William B. Hunt, assistant executive director for legislative services, at the NCAA national office.*

Recovery from broken neck expected

A Baldwin-Wallace College baseball player who broke his neck sliding into a third baseman is expected to recover fully, a Baldwin-Wallace spokesman said May 1.

Guy Fisher, 21, was in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit of a Westerville, Ohio, hospital after undergoing eight hours of surgery to remove his crushed fifth vertebra, said Kevin Ruple, Baldwin-Wallace sports information director. He said doctors also grafted bone from Fisher's hip into the space where the vertebra was, Ruple said.

"They had thought he might be paralyzed, but they're optimistic now that he'll recover fully, although no one knows how soon," Ruple said. He said Fisher will have to wear a brace for four to six months, the Associated Press reported.

Fisher underwent surgery April 30 after the accident during the sixth inning of a game with Otterbein College.

Combined-scoring championships approved for men's, women's fencing

The NCAA Executive Committee has approved the establishment in 1990 of a combined-scoring National Collegiate Men's and Women's Fencing Championships.

The new format, which replaces the 45-year-old National Collegiate Men's Fencing Championships and the eight-year-old National Collegiate Women's Fencing Championships, was proposed by the NCAA Men's and Women's Fencing Committees during their joint meeting April 21-24 in Orlando, Florida.

In August 1988, the Executive Committee directed the fencing committees to develop a recommendation for combined-scoring championships because of declining sponsorship of the sport at NCAA member institutions.

The new format includes individual and team events in each of four weapons: women's foil, men's sabre, men's foil and men's epee. One institution will win the overall national championship by totaling the most points in the four team events. In addition, champions will be crowned in each weapons team event and in each individual event.

The events will be conducted over a five-day period during the fourth week of March.

Team competitions

The new women's team competition has the same format as the previous championships. Twelve teams of five fencers — four starters plus one substitute — will compete in foil. The championship differs from previous practice only in that transportation and per diem will not be provided for substitutes.

The men's competition will be a new event. Previously, 30 fencers competed for individual titles in each of three weapons; team points were earned according to how well each team's fencers performed in the individual competitions.

Under the new system, each of the three team weapons events will include eight squads of four fencers — three starters plus one substitute. The competition in each weapon will be conducted in the same manner as the women's team event.

Awards will go to the top three teams in women's foil and men's sabre, foil and epee. The top team in each event will be declared national weapons team champion.

Team selection for each weapons team championship will be based on a particular team's won-lost record and strength of schedule; the record of the school's other weapons teams will not be a factor.

Individual competitions

The women's individual foil competition will be the same as in previous championships, except that the number of competitors will increase from 24 to 30. The only change in men's individual sabre, foil and epee competitions is that the results will have no bearing on the team championship.

No more than four fencers from one institution will be selected for the women's individual foil competition, and no more than three from one institution will be selected for a men's individual event. Fencers cannot compete in more than one weapon in the championships.

In addition to those already participating in the team events, a maximum of 34 other fencers will be invited to the individual championships. The number and distribution of additional fencers will depend on that year's pool of fencers.

The overall participation ratio for the combined championships will be 1 to 10.2, compared to 1 to 8.1 for this year's women's championships and 1 to 11.7 for the men's.

Selection

The regional alignment for the combined championships will be identical to the four-region alignment that has been used for the women's championships. Previously, there were three regions for men's fencing.

The number of weapons teams and individuals selected from a region will be based on the regional allocation formula that the NCAA Men's Fencing Committee has used for five years.

In proposing the new format, the committees noted that transportation expenses for participants would remain the same or decrease because the maximum number of competitors would be 154. Under the old format, a maximum of 165 fencers (90 men and 75 women) could compete in the championships; the actual number of participants in the last three championships averaged 154.

The committees estimated that there would be a slight increase in per diem expenses.

Revisions in NCAA Manual

Editor's Note: Proposal No. 70, approved at the 1989 NCAA Convention, authorized the NCAA Council to interpret, revise and publish in The NCAA News any wording in the new (1989-90) NCAA Manual consistent with its established meaning when evidence clearly indicates that the revised Manual is inconsistent with that meaning. The Council is required to sponsor legislation at the 1990 annual Convention to confirm such revisions. In its April meeting, the Council adopted the following revisions in the 1989-90 Manual under the provisions of Proposal No. 70, noting that both represented previous legislation omitted in the new Manual. They will be sponsored as legislation at the January 1990 Convention and are binding and in effect upon publication in this issue of the News.

Constitution 4.7.1.1 was revised to read as follows:

4.7.1.1 District Transfers. Active member institutions may be transferred from their regular geographical districts by majority vote of the delegates present and voting at an annual Convention or by majority vote of the Council. An annual listing of the geographical transfers of active members shall appear in the NCAA Directory. B 9-4

Bylaw 18.4.2.1 was revised to add new subparagraph (e), as follows:

(3) Have confirmed annually its sponsorship of a varsity intercollegiate team in the sport by so reporting on the NCAA official information form. ER 1-5-(b)-(5)

Schools must support higher standard in athletics

By Jeffrey R. Holland

We all know the positive benefits that can accrue to student-athletes, fans and sponsoring institutions through participation in healthy sports competition. Intercollegiate athletics is one of the traditional hallmarks of robust campus life in America, and it can, when clean and controlled, be a strong component of all that is admirable in a young man's or woman's academic experience.

Unfortunately, however, we find national publicity regularly revealing ever more serious deterioration of that which once was good in collegiate sports.

Many administrators, fans, coaches and athletes themselves now seriously question the role and value of athletics in higher education. Indeed, it seems entirely possible that intercollegiate athletics as we have known it in this country is on the brink of self-destruction—and many of our constituents would say good riddance.

But while the situation is sometimes deplorable, I do not believe it is hopeless. We at Brigham Young University believe the tide can be turned if individuals and institutions that really care about the problem will demand and support a higher standard of conduct and responsibility among players, coaches, fans and institutional officials.

We are most anxious to join with all others who want actively to promote proper behavior and to set clearer expectations, on and off the field of play.

We need to get back to the days when superior athletics performance was applauded by winners and losers alike, when crowds were strong in supporting their own teams rather than boorishly intimidating opposing teams, when sports spawned moral heroes and character was in vogue, when hard-fought battles engendered mutual respect among players, when playing fields and competition courts were not cluttered with debris thrown by antago-nists, and when fans could take family and friends to games and not be embarrassed by vulgar signs and obscene slogans.

We believe intercollegiate athletics can be an important and vital component in the education of all who participate, including fans. BYU sponsors an athletics program because of the academic, physical, social and even spiritual development it can bring to the lives of students who participate. It is important to us, as we hope it is to others, to hold on dearly to these earlier athletics virtues and to actively guard against the ills that are threatening to destroy them.

We readily admit that BYU has not always lived up to its own high expectations for sportsmanship. Some of our problems have generated national press coverage partly because more should be expected of us here. I am the first to acknowledge that. As a result of our institutional concern and displeasure over the on-the-field conduct of a very few of our athletes, we asked our athletics department last year to review our policies governing university expectations for sportsmanship and athlete conduct.

We intend to run an exemplary athletics program at every level of competition and in all aspects of our administration. We pledge all of our effort and our every desire to succeed in that endeavor. We hope in this way to make a meaningful contribution to the betterment of intercollegiate athletics nationally

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

In the April 12 issue of The NCAA News, there were three articles dealing with the University of Iowa. The first, a statement by University of Iowa President Hunter Rawlings III saying he would bar freshmen from participating in sports if the NCAA does not take that action. Below that was another article quoting the Hawkeye athletics director as saying that "national action is needed to address this problem." And, below that was an article quoting Hayden Fry, the Iowa football coach, indicating that this type of publicity could force his exit.

Without getting into an extended discussion on the pros and cons of freshman eligibility, why don't these people in positions of responsibility address the issue involved?

The issue is this: It appears that freshmen are having a difficult time getting their priorities in order regarding their relationship between academics and athletics. The fact is that many of these freshmen are borderline students. In the majority of cases, these problems are football- and basketball-related.

Why make sweeping legislation and compare everything to football and basketball? Frankly, most nonrevenue sports have little if anything in common with football and basketball as they are conducted in Division I college athletics programs.

Why then treat all the other sports as you treat football and basketball? If you don't wish to have freshmen eligible in football and basketball, fine. It doesn't appear to me that the other sports have nearly the problem in having their freshmen adjust to school and still play competitive collegiate athletics in their first year.

The proposal by Rawlings strikes me as throwing the baby out with the bath water.

Much needs to be done to effectively bring athletics into proper focus in the university and college community. I think we should be a little more discerning as to what the problems are and where we might address solutions. Generalities are not the answer.

The NCAA Executive Committee, meeting May 7-8, 1984, in Kansas City, Missouri, approved a proposal by the Special Committee on Drug Testing to implement a drug-testing program at NCAA championships, as well as random on-campus testing for anabolic steroids. (The NCAA News, May 9, 1984)

Ten years ago

James Frank, president of Lincoln University (Missouri) and secretary-treasurer of the NCAA, called for greater presidential involvement in intercollegiate athletics in an NCAA News article. "To put it bluntly," he said, "athletics has grown so much that the president must be involved.... Because (the programs) are so big and so much can go wrong, the presidents must know what's going on." (May 31, 1979, NCAA News)

San Francisco Examiner

"In this uneasy, contradictory environment, it's no wonder coaches grab whatever deal looks best today, because they've learned they can't count on tomorrow.

"It's an unkind system for coaches, but it's worse for the players. When a player signs a letter of intent, he (or she) commits to a school with the understanding he'll be playing and learning under a particular coach.

"If the coach leaves before the player enters school, the contract should be nullified. The school is no longer living up to its end of the agreement. The players should be allowed to reopen talks with the other schools that had offered scholarships.

"If a school decides to release a player from his letter of intent, the NCAA makes him sit out a year before becoming eligible to play for another Division I school. Without a release, the penalty is two years.

"Just as the coach is allowed to decide his own future without penalty, so should the athlete.

and to life in the Western Athletic Conference locally.

To do this, we are embarking immediately upon a program of higher expectations and improved conduct for players, coaches, administrators and fans.

The athletes who represent BYU are expected to display the highest degree of sportsmanship. They must conduct themselves in an exemplary manner both on and off the field or court. They are expected to play hard and, at the same time, observe all the written and unwritten rules of sportsmanship and our own institutional code of honor.

In a nation that espouses racial and religious freedom, race and religion never should be used as tools of intimidation. The repugnance we all feel toward racial or religious slurs should be particularly repugnant in athletics. One of the fundamental tenets of our sponsor, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, is that all men and women of every race are literally children of God—truly brothers and sisters.

It is particularly offensive and totally unacceptable to us, as it should be to all people, when our athletes or their opponents use racial or ethnic slurs as a means to intimidate or anger others.

We also want to promote civil behavior and good sportsmanship among our fans as well as among the athletes themselves.

BYU esteems visiting teams as worthy opponents representing fine academic institutions. We value the mutually beneficial arrangement that brings us together. We want to provide an atmosphere at all contests where athletics prowess on both teams is esteemed, where the crowd is enthusiastic but never obscene and where the opposing teams are treated as guests—friendly adversaries, if you will—not malicious enemies nor targets of abuse.

Clearly, university officials, coaches and athletes must set this standard for sportsmanship, and fans must be told what is and what is not acceptable behavior. Visiting officials, coaches, athletes and fans should be welcomed and treated with respect. The competitive edge that a home team enjoys should result from positive fan support and not from a climate of intimidation or hostility.

Obviously, there will be disagreements over calls and friction on the court or field from time to time. Such things are inevitable in competition. But those must be kept within very narrow and acceptable limits. In the end, civil behavior and mutual respect should prevail.

Student-athletes at BYU who do not abide by our high standards of sportsmanship will be disciplined in a sequence that can lead to being barred from a game, barred from intercollegiate athletics altogether or barred from the university itself.

Similarly, student fans who behave inappropriately will be removed from the game and will be referred to the dean of students for a review of their conduct and the imposition of appropriate discipline.

Nonstudent fans who behave inappropriately will be asked by our ushers to cease any offensive conduct. If the offending conduct is not terminated, we will exercise our right to exclude those fans from that game, and perhaps future contests as well.

It is incongruous that colleges and universities, as the guardians of culture and civilization and knowledge, should allow destructive, even criminal, behavior in their athletics arenas when it would not be tolerated in any other aspect of our higher educational endeavors.

In the name of preserving and, where necessary, restoring all that is good in collegiate athletics, we want to join hands with others of like mind in fighting to regain this high ground.

On the other hand, we do not wish to join in partnership with those who do not share these aspirations.

Recent history favors Lady Lions

Penn State would like to see certain patterns continue in the National Collegiate Women's Lacrosse Championship.

For example, for the past three years the champion was the previous year's runner-up. The Lady Lions were the runner-up last year.

Also, Penn State has reached the title game for the past three years, finishing second, first and second. A fourth straight trip to the final game would be unprecedented in championship history.

"I know our seniors would like nothing more than to play in the championship game for the fourth straight year," coach Sue Scheetz said. "Wanting it doesn't make it happen; actions make it happen."

Tami Worley is one senior who always seems to be in on the action. She has scored seven goals in each of the last two championships and has tied for the lead in tournament scoring both of those years. Mary Ann Foley and Diane Whipple also were among the scoring leaders in last year's championship.

"You have to play with excitement," Scheetz said about competing for the title.

Temple took the title in 1988, going undefeated for the season.

Championship Preview

Coach Tina Sloan Green called last year's squad the type of team that comes along once in a lifetime, but the winning attitude and some key veterans are still with the Lady Owls.

Senior Maria Dorando and juniors Vicki Yocom and Aamina Thornton form the defense in front of goalie Jill Marple. Yocom was the outstanding player on defense in last year's championship. Senior Deb Minzola has been the mainstay of the Temple attack, according to Green.

Harvard reached the semifinals last year before bowing to Temple. Charlotte Joslin scored three goals in that game and ranked among the tournament's scoring leaders.

"Our team, so far, is showing a lot of strength on defense," coach Carole Kleinfelder said. The experienced defense has given a retooled attack time to develop.

Princeton is looking for its first invitation to the tournament since 1983. Coach Chris Sailer has a veteran defense keyed by goalie Demer Holleran, who is a champion squash player and has outstanding quickness.

"Our strength all season long has been our defense," Sailer said. "The defense really works together as a unit."

Goldbrenner after 'double-triple'

Doubles and triples are common topics of conversation during the spring sports season, but not in lacrosse.

This year, however, Trenton State coach Sharon Goldbrenner has an opportunity to "hit" both if her team wins the 1989 Division III women's championship.

Goldbrenner coached the Lady Lions to the Division III Field Hockey Championship last fall, so a title this spring would give her two national championships in the same academic year. Seven of this year's lacrosse players were on the field hockey team, including six starters.

In addition, the Lady Lions will be seeking a third consecutive title in lacrosse.

Goldbrenner said she had "a lot of gaps to fill" this year, but the experienced players set a high standard of play and the younger players followed suit.

"Everyone is pulling her own weight," Goldbrenner said.

Juniors Deanna Beuerle and Lee Moreau were the top two scorers in last year's championship. Beuerle had 11 goals and four assists, and Moreau scored seven times and had seven assists. They scored four goals apiece in the title contest, and Moreau earned outstanding-player honors on attack.

Goldbrenner cites sticking to fundamentals, playing hard and "playing the style of game you've played all season" as key factors in championship competition.

Ursinus is one of the challengers that would like to throw Trenton State a curve this year. The rivalry between the two teams includes meetings in the first three Division III Women's Lacrosse Championship title games. Ursinus won the title in 1986, but Trenton State took a one-goal decision in overtime in 1987.

Ursinus' Suzanne Thomas scored six goals and had three assists to rank among the scoring leaders in last year's tournament. This year, she has scored 38 goals and 25 assists through 14 games. Nanci Sarcinello has 30 goals and seven assists, and veteran goalie Kim Piersall is back in the net.

Last year, William Smith became the first team other than Trenton State and Ursinus to reach the title game.

Senior Heather Dwinell is back after scoring seven goals in last year's tournament, including three in the championship game. Junior Melissa Crowley, who also scored three goals in the final, has been the Herons' leading scorer this season. Goalie Susan Stuart set a record for saves in the tournament with 56 last year, and her 27 saves against Ursinus in the semifinals tied another record.

"When you get to this stage of the competitive season, everything has got to be just right and going strong for you," coach Pat Genovese said. "The teams in the tournament are pretty well-polished."

Johns Hopkins is looking for a third straight tournament invitation after reaching the semifinals last year. Coach Sally Anderson said defense has been the hallmark of this team, along with a strong passing game. Point Julie Siegrist, cover point Erika Feller and goalie Kris Cole anchor the defense.

Spell III men's lacrosse H-O-B-A-R-T

The Division III Men's Lacrosse Championship will celebrate a decade of competition this year—a decade that has seen Hobart win all nine titles.

"The first couple of years (the streak) was not as difficult a thing to carry around, because who would have thought it would go on as far as it has," said coach Dave Urlick, who doesn't like to discuss rankings or think about championships during the regular season.

However, as Hobart's string of titles has gotten longer, more and more attention has been focused on it.

"I think it's counterproductive to speak about the tournament," he said. "If you do that, you're not going to focus on the task at hand, which is to become a better lacrosse team."

Urlick concedes, however that "you know it's in the back of the players' minds, especially the seniors," Urlick said. "They don't want to be the first class that doesn't repeat."

"That's going to happen and I've prepared for that in my own mind. I've thought of some of the things

Play-offs sport new look

The National Collegiate and Division III Women's Lacrosse Championships have undergone a format change.

For the first time, semifinal games for both championships will be played the day before the championship games, and the semifinals and finals for both championships will be played at a common site.

Previously, the first-round and semifinal games of both championships were held at separate, on-campus sites. The championship games were held a week after the semifinals at a common site.

Harvard coach Carole Kleinfelder, an advocate of the new format, was a member of the NCAA Women's Lacrosse Committee last year when the format change was recommended to the Executive Committee.

The purpose of the change is to create a more enjoyable experience for participants. Kleinfelder said last year's team, which reached the semifinals, told her "we're a final-four team, but we don't feel like a final-four team." This year, the semifinalists from both championships will have an opportunity to meet and watch the other top teams. "It gives more teams the opportunity to experience the feeling of going to a national championship," Trenton State's Sharon Goldbrenner said.

Kleinfelder and William Smith's Pat Genovese see an added benefit in the more compact format in that less class time is missed.

The play-off weekend also will give spectators an opportunity to watch six games in two days.

"(The new format) should be a great advancement for the sport of lacrosse," Penn State's Susan Scheetz said. "It gives people who live a distance (from the site) a reason to travel."

The experience of playing on consecutive days probably will not be new for most of the teams involved. Scheetz thinks teams scheduled more back-to-back games this year to give their players that experience.

Temple coach Tina Sloan Green and Johns Hopkins coach Sally Anderson believe a team's depth could take on added significance because of the new format.

"The weekend format is excellent," Genovese said. "We won't know all the pluses and minuses until it has been played through once."

'88 runner-up gets chance for redemption

After the singles round of last year's Division III men's tennis team championship match, UC Santa Cruz held a 4-2 lead over Washington and Lee. All that coach Robert Hansen's squad had to do was win one doubles match to capture its first team title.

Three matches, three losses and several hours later, UC Santa Cruz had to settle for second place.

"It's hard to say what turned the momentum around," Hansen said. "We were all over them early in the match; but by the time it was nine hours old, I think we got a little weary. Of course, the other factor is that Washington and Lee certainly had very, very good doubles teams."

Hansen is certain that the memory of that loss will not haunt his players this year, because only one player—senior Chad Andrews—returns from that squad. But even with all the fresh faces, UC Santa Cruz is ranked first in the nation in Division III.

"I never would have guessed that we would be this far along," Hansen said. "We've gotten strong singles play up and down the lineup, and we don't give any points away in doubles. We have the capability of winning at every spot."

Andrews, who reached the singles quarterfinals last year and the semifinals in the 1987 tournament, has worked through a midseason slump and is playing strong tennis. He heads a solid corps of singles players that has done very well against Division III competition. No. 3 singles player Eric Oehlschlager and fellow freshman Greg Jarasitis both were undefeated against players from their division through April 26. Steve Gottlieb also has played well after moving up to No. 2 singles.

Andrews and Oehlschlager form the strong doubles team that Hansen needs to avert a repeat of last year's finals loss. The tandem is rated eighth in the nation in the Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Series rankings conducted by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association.

Even with the wealth of young talent on his team, Hansen believes the team title is up for grabs. "There should be a lot of close matches in the tournament," he said. "Right now, I think there are about eight teams capable of winning it."

A team that will make a strong challenge for the title is one that UC Santa Cruz defeated earlier this season—Swarthmore. The Little Quakers, who lost, 5-0, to Washington and Lee in last year's semifinals, are ranked second in the ITCA poll. They return four key players from last year's squad: sophomore Andy Dailey, junior Andy Mouer, sophomore Steve Tignor and junior Lindsay Williams.

Court opponents search for breaks in effort to unseat Stanford women

How do you beat a team that is the defending national champion and is undefeated this season while playing in the toughest conference in the nation?

How do you beat a team ranked No. 1 in the nation all year and with five of the top 11?

Or, to rephrase the question, how do you beat the Stanford women's tennis team?

That is what Division I women's tennis coaches and players are asking themselves as they prepare for the 1989 championships. The answers don't come easily.

"Just wish for one of your team's best days and hope one of their players loses a match," offered Jan Brogan, coach of Pacific-10 Conference rival California. "You have to have your players in the upper 25 percent of their ability level."

That comes from a coach whose team is ranked fifth in the latest Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Rankings released by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association. For most other teams, even that high level of play wouldn't be good enough.

Coach Frank Brennan has led his Stanford team to three straight Division I Women's Tennis Championships team titles and five in the last seven years. Despite the graduation of all-Americans Kay Little and Cari Hagey, this year's Cardinal squad could be his strongest ever.

Sophomore Tami Whitlinger has been rated the No. 1 singles player in the nation all season. Through May 1, her record stood at 17-1; her only setback was a 5-7, 6-4, 7-5 loss to Karen Shin of California.

The Cardinal has four other highly ranked singles players: sophomore Sandra Birch (15-3), No. 3; junior Lisa Green (18-3) No. 5; freshman Debbie Graham (22-0), No. 10, and sophomore Teri Whitlinger (19-1), No. 11. And freshman Kylie Johnson is 18-1 at the sixth singles spot.

As if this fearsome singles lineup is not enough, the Whitlinger twins form the top-ranked doubles combination. However, their record is only 5-1 because the doubles round has been canceled in nearly one-third of Stanford's matches.

"When you're playing Stanford, your goal is to win two singles matches and get into the doubles," Brogan said. "But that still doesn't mean you'll beat them; they're very strong in doubles, too."

This strategy nearly worked for Florida earlier this season. After losing to Stanford, 6-0, at the USTA/ITCA Women's National Collegiate Indoor Tennis Championship, the Lady Gators hosted a rematch March 31 in Gainesville. They trailed 4-2 after the singles

When Florida players Shaun Stafford and Halle Cioffi faced each other in last year's singles final, it was the first time in tournament history that two players from the same school had met for the title. Stafford won the match, 7-6, 6-4. Both are gone from the Florida lineup this season... No squad has swept the team, singles and doubles crowns.

Hampton hopes return visit yields second team crown

The last time the Division II Men's Tennis Championships were held in Missouri, Robert Screen's Hampton team won the team title. That was in 1976.

Today, Screen hopes the passing of 13 years and the championships' return to the Show-Me State will give his team the extra luck it needs to win the school's second team crown.

As he prepares his players for this year's tournament at Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, Screen also hopes Hampton can shed the runner-up label it has acquired by finishing second to Chapman in three of the last four championships.

"This year, I'm hoping our school president will come me 'Hertz' instead of 'Avis,'" Screen joked.

The Pirates (21-3 through May 1) may not have to take a back seat to any team this year. Screen's veteran squad was ranked first in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association's midseason rankings, and defending champion Chapman lost two of its top players to graduation.

Screen is optimistic about his team's chances because of its depth and the type of schedule it has played.

"We're very strong in singles, especially Nos. 4, 5 and 6," he said, "and we've been playing extremely well in doubles recently. This was a problem area before, but our doubles teams have really come on strong."

"Also, we've played a great schedule. We've faced Rollins, Florida, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, North Texas—all very good teams. This prepares us for the tough matches we will face in the championships."

Hampton is led by sophomore Luis Nascimento and junior Islam Ul-Haq, who is 18-4 this year, losing only to Division I opponents.

Islam Ul-Haq

Nascimento teamed with Falvio Lima to advance to the finals of the doubles championship last year, and Ul-Haq was one of two Pirates to reach the singles semifinals. The other was Yakubu Suleiman, who was scheduled to play first singles this spring. However, after Suleiman traveled to his native Nigeria for the Davis Cup trials in November, the Federal government denied him a return visa. The team also lost Lima because of poor grades.

"We've had some major losses (of players) this year; but overall, we've done well without them," Screen said. "You have to buckle up and go with what you've got."

What Cal Poly San Luis Obispo has is a team that should make a strong bid to keep the team title in the state of California for the fifth straight year. The Mustangs, who finished third last year after losing to Hampton in the semifinals, captured the California Collegiate Athletic Association crown and posted a 20-6 record this season despite losing several key players from last year.

Mike Giusto graduated; Neal Berryman is injured and will return for his senior year next season, and Joe McDonough transferred to San See Hampton, page 9

Cal State Northridge youngsters playing like veterans

Cal State Northridge women's softball coach Gary Torgeson has used a lot of young players this season, but the Matadors have responded like a veteran-laden squad. With 53 victories in 68 tries, Cal State Northridge runner-up in the 1988 Division II play-offs appears to be headed for another shot at an NCAA championship.

"We only have three seniors this year," Torgeson said, "and sometimes there are as many as four freshmen on the field. I'd hate for my upper-classmen not to get the chance to play in another championship, but I need to let the freshmen play."

One of the rookies who has been indispensable for the squad is pitcher Heather Lindstrom. In 23 appearances, she has a 17-6 record and a 0.56 earned-run average. Sharing mound duties are junior Debbie Dickmann (26-5) and Christy Alves (4-4). Dickmann, who was named to last year's all-tournament team, sports an ERA of 0.38.

Junior all-America candidate Lisa Erickson and senior Pam Smith power the Matador offense. Erickson (who also was on the 1988 all-tournament team) is batting .457 as the squad's leadoff hitter. A first baseman, Smith recently set a school record with 13 doubles for the season.

Cal State Sacramento (43-15) is hoping for its third tournament appearance—all under head coach Irene Shea—but the road could be a rocky one for the Hornets.

"We had a really young team last year, so the maturity factor is important this year," Shea offered. "We're a lot stronger, but so is everyone else. Playing in our regional is going to be tough. It's interesting, but tough."

"We've played Northridge five times this season and we're 2-3 against them, so we know we can beat them," Shea continued. "But the teams around here are so evenly (matched) that it's frustrating. We can look out on the field (at the upcoming regionals, which Sacramento will host) and see that we're as good as three of the teams out there."

Leading the Hornet attack are sophomore center fielder Terri Eagleston, junior third baseman Lori Avis and sophomore shortstop Toni Heisler. Eagleston is the team's leading hitter at .382, which includes 71 hits, 24 runs batted in, 10 doubles, five triples and three homers. Heisler (.301) has knocked in 18 runs on 52 hits, and Avis, a 1988 all-America selection, is hitting .296 with 55 hits and 18 RBIs.

Florida Southern (42-4) has pitching to go with a good offense this season. "We're kind of the opposite of last year when we had no pitching staff," head coach Chris Bellotto pointed out. "Now that we've got the pitching under control, we're really looking to go farther."

"We have seven seniors on the team who were disappointed that we lost out in regionals (to Northeast Missouri State) last year," she continued. "We had the opportunities, but they just didn't happen."

Junior college transfers Nycki Sandstede and Sindy Johansen could change the scenario this season. Sandstede, a junior, owns a 19-2 record with an ERA of 0.80 and has 155 strikeouts. Sophomore Johansen (0.70 ERA) has recorded 12 shutouts on her way to a 21-2 record.

Among the Moccasins' top hitters are senior Dianne Wiedemann, who is leading the team with a .400 average; Kellie Robinson, the squad's only freshman starter, at .391, and Robin Allen, a 1988 all-America selection, who is hitting .379.

Bloomsburg's highest finish in the tournament came in 1986 when the Huskies finished third behind Stephen F. Austin State and Cal State Northridge (Nos. 1 and 2, respectively). Though the Huskies haven't played either opponent since then, coach Jan Hutchinson is confident in her team's abilities against either one this year.

"We haven't seen any of the California teams since 1986. But we're comparable, and we'd stand a good chance against them. Plus, we've already beaten Florida Southern, and I think we can do it again," Hutchinson said. "Our pitching is very strong this year, and our fielding and hitting are a lot stronger too. I'm confident in the team and the players' abilities."

The 38-3 Huskies have produced 25 home runs for the season. Leading the offense are Lori Shelly and Marty Laudato. Shelly (.443) has 10 doubles, four triples and five home runs, while Laudato (.450) has 10 doubles, five triples and five homers to her credit.

Last year's champion, Cal State Bakersfield, currently ranks 15th in the nation with a 24-15 record, and 1988 runner-up Lock Haven is 11th with a 19-7 record.

Central (Iowa) ready to defend '88 title

Central College's (Iowa) women's softball team appears to have the necessary tools to defend the 1988 Division III Women's Softball Championship it claimed with a 3-2 victory over Allegheny last spring at Elmhurst. A recent twin bill against Luther, however, may have given other contenders a ray of title hope.

The Dutchmen had been flying through their schedule, winning 26 of the first 30 contests, before errors led to three runs in the first game with Luther.

"From a confidence standpoint, you could see things switch around," said coach George Wares. "That first error opened the floodgates. Luther had all the momentum. That's oversimplifying things, but you wonder what would have happened the rest of the day if we hadn't given up those three runs." By the end of the twin bill, Central had committed seven errors and dropped both contests, 5-3 and 9-3.

"It's my style to try to look at the positives," Wares continued. "If there is a positive factor, it's that this takes a little pressure off us so people aren't thinking we can't be beaten. Hopefully, we can pick something up from two embarrassing losses."

"The big thing is we've got to put it behind us," he added. "We say the same thing about a big win. You never want to get yourself too up after a win or too down after a loss. We've always said we've got some pretty even-tempered players; now we need to show that."

Trenton State (28-7) returns three first-team all-America selections in Pam McCreesh, Diane Klueg and Jill Marghella. In her final season with the Lions, Klueg leads the team with a .470 batting average that includes 47 hits and 28 runs batted in. "Right now she leads the team in career hits (254), runs (164), RBIs (164) and doubles (44)," coach June Walker said. "And she's equally good on defense, with a .957 fielding percentage at third base."

McCreesh, also a senior, is batting .348 (second behind Klueg) with 18 RBIs. She received Division III player-of-the-year honors for the 1988 season. Pitching duties are shared by Marghella (14-6, 1.10 ERA) and freshman Annette Tomasello (10-1, 1.06).

"We've got one of the best infields anywhere," Walker said. "Our outfield is new, but it's fast and doing a good job. Our pitching is experienced too. We're a better overall team than we were last year. There's not a part of our game that's really weak that we have to hide," she added.

Versatility is the trademark of UC San Diego's 28-7 squad. "Our girls can play two or three different positions, and they can play them well," cohead coach Lin Adams said. "We don't have a starting nine with subs... we have 12 starters."

Adams and cohead coach Lisa Bassi emphasize that a player must be able to come in and play wherever needed. "That's one of our big strengths," Adams pointed out. "For example, one of our girls is a backup catcher; she can start on the mound, and she can play in the field. And she's going to play somewhere because she's an outstanding hitter."

"It's much easier that way to keep the squad happy. Instead of pulling players off the bench when you're in a pinch, you have players constantly contributing," Adams added.

Some of those contributing players include pitcher Kathy Fogg; shortstop and leadoff hitter Dana Chakin; cocaptain Tracy Kehr, who catches and bats cleanup, and pitchers Lynn and Diana Morino. Also included is the team's sole senior, center fielder Michelle Flaska.

Eastern Connecticut State, third-place finisher last year; 1988 runner-up Allegheny, and Glassboro State also could do well in the 1989 tournament.

Championship Profile

Event: Division III women's softball.

Field: Twenty teams will be chosen for the 1989 championship, with at least one team being selected from each of the five regions. The remaining teams will be selected at large.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Central (Iowa) defeated Allegheny, 3-2, for the first softball title in school history.

Schedule: Regionals will be played May 12-13 at on-campus sites. The finals will be held May 19-22 at Trenton State.

The NCAA News coverage: Scores and pairings from regional play will be published in the May 17 issue of the News. Final results will appear in the May 24 issue.

Contenders: Allegheny, Central (Iowa), Eastern Connecticut State, Glassboro State, Trenton State, UC San Diego.

Championship notes: Eastern Connecticut State, third-place finisher in the 1988 championship, had the best team earned-run average at 0.48... With its win last year, Central (Iowa) became the fourth team in the seven-year history of the championship to claim the title... Of the top-ranked teams this season, Trenton State boasts the best won-lost percentage at .745, closely followed by Eastern Connecticut State at .740.

Championship Profile

Event: Division II women's softball.

Field: Sixteen teams will compete for the 1989 title. Four conferences have been granted automatic qualification, and the remaining 12 teams will be selected at large.

Automatic qualification: California Collegiate Athletic Association, Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association, New England Collegiate Conference, Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference.

Defending champion: Cal State Bakersfield, appearing in the tournament for the first time, overcame Lock Haven, 4-3.

Schedule: Four regional tournaments will be played May 13-14 at on-campus sites. The finals will be held May 19-21 at the Sacramento Softball Complex, with Cal State Sacramento hosting.

The NCAA News Coverage: Scores and pairings from the regionals will appear in the May 17 issue, and results will be published in the May 24 issue of the News.

Contenders: Bloomsburg, Cal State Northridge, Cal State Sacramento and Florida Southern.

Championship notes: In the team's sole tournament appearance, Cal State Bakersfield owns the best won-lost percentage (.875, 7-1 record)... Of the top-ranked teams this season, Cal State Northridge leads with a 38-9 record (.809) in seven appearances... The longest game in last year's finals series was game No. 6 between Cal State Bakersfield and Lock Haven. The 13 innings of play took a little over three hours to complete... Cal State Northridge's Lisa Erickson tied a national record last year with two stolen bases in a game against Northeast Missouri State.

Festival ice hockey coaches named

Coaches from three NCAA member institutions will serve as head coaches for men's ice hockey competition at the U.S. Olympic Festival July 21-30 at Oklahoma City.

John Perpich, head coach at Ferris State University, will coach Team North; Steve Cedorchuk, associate head coach at Boston College, will guide Team South, and Doug Woog, head coach at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, will coach Team West.

All three coaches previously have been head coaches in festival competition.

Scoring in Division I men's basketball highest since '75

By James M. Van Valkenburg
NCAA Director of Statistics

National scoring in men's Division I basketball in 1989 reached its highest level since 1975, and the increase of 3.6 points per game has been exceeded only once—without a rule change—in the last 24 years. Credit the three-pointer for opening up the inside game.

The national average was 151.4 points per game (both teams combined, all 8,677 games involving at least one of the nation's 293 Division I teams). That is the highest since the 153.1 in 1975, also the year of the record high of 62.9 field goals scored per game.

The record scoring high of 155.4 in 1971 came before the 1973 free-throw rule (the one currently in use—no free throws on the first six common fouls of each half). Because of that rule, there were 13 fewer free-throw attempts per game in 1973 than in 1971 (38.3 vs. 51.3).

This year's 3.6 scoring increase (over 147.8 last year) is tied for the second highest in 24 years, exceeded only by the 4.0 increase in 1970 over 1969.

Inside game opens up

For the second straight year, shooting accuracy from inside the three-point line showed a solid increase, indicating that the three-point goal is doing what it was designed to do—open up the inside game.

Two-point field-goal accuracy in 1989 was 49.8 percent vs. 48.9 percent in 1988 and 47.9 percent in 1987, the first year of universal use of the three-point shot. Accuracy from all ranges improved only from 47.03 to 47.04 percent in 1989 due to more use of the three-pointer. It was 46.38 in 1987.

Three-point use up

At the same time, use of the three-point shot continued to increase. That means fewer two-point shots, but because of the accuracy increase, scoring by means of two-pointers was unchanged in 1989, staying at 93.7 points per game.

Scoring by means of three-pointers jumped 2.7 per game to 26.6 vs. 23.9 points in 1988. The rest of the scoring increase came at the free-throw line, 31.1 points scored per game vs. 30.2 a year ago. That 31.1, by the way, is the highest figure since 1972, last year of the old rule.

Summing up, the three-pointer accounted for 75 percent of the scoring increase and is a big reason for the most efficient inside game ever.

Last year, scoring from three-pointers increased by 2.9 points per game and the national figure from all sources was up only 2.3, even with more accurate inside shooting. In 1987, the rule change itself added 7.0 and the nation jumped 6.8.

In 1989, three-pointers scored per game reached 8.87 in 23.60 attempts, as almost one of every five shots attempted came from beyond the line. In 1988, the figures were that I think should be said when the team doesn't win the national championship."

Urlick is quick to say that every one of the championships has been special, but he can single out some highlights. The first Division III championship in 1980 came during Urlick's first year as the Statesmen's head coach.

The late William C. Stiles was athletics director at Hobart when Urlick was named head coach, but Stiles died in 1979 and never enjoyed the fruit borne by that selection.

"Bill Stiles had the faith to make me the head coach at a rather young age, and I felt we justified his faith in us," Urlick said.

In 1982, Washington (Maryland) and Hobart battled in overtime before the Statesmen took a 9-8 decision. Larry Grimaldi made "a dramatic shot from a rather long distance" to give Hobart its third title. Larry's brother, Tom, also was an outstanding player for the Statesmen and was the leading scorer in the tournament in 1983 and 1984.

Urlick also remembers the 1983 championship game against Roanoke for the quality of play.

"You always try to play well at the end of the season," he said.

"That was a game in which we played particularly well."

The 1985 title game presented a problem the Statesmen had never faced in the final game; it was the first contest that was not played on Hobart's home field. The Statesmen had to travel to Chestertown, Maryland, to face Washington after losing to the Sho'men in Chestertown during the regular season.

As the Statesmen approached the field, they heard tremendous noise from the crowd. When they got into the stadium, they found a large contingent of their own fans.

"Just to see that kind of support and hear it that far away (from home) was really an uplifting moment," Urlick said. "I think our players rode that emotion through the whole game."

Even with all the success that his teams have had in championship competition, Urlick finds that the emotions, anticipation and nervousness related to playing for the title are still there.

"It doesn't ever get routine, and I hope it never does," he said. "The players are pretty intense in most games, but it goes up a notch or two (in the championship game). The concentration goes up. That's how it should be."

Hampton

Diego State. McDonough followed the path of coach Hugh Bream, who left in the off-season to head the Division I Aztec program.

"We've done surprisingly well this year in light of the fact that three of our top players are gone," said coach Kevin Platt, who took over at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo this season after two years at Cal State Bakersfield. "Everyone's had to move up, and they've all contributed and improved—some don't realize how much they've improved this year."

Platt said the team's 7-0 record in dual matches decided by 5-4 scores has given his squad the boost in confidence it needs to do well in the championships. "We've played well in every big match," he said. "Our guys believe that if it's a close match, they're going to win."

The Mustangs have the top-rated doubles team in Division II with senior Tim Fresenius and sophomore Alex Havrilenko. After No. 1 singles player Fresenius, who also is expected to contend for the singles crown, the squad has "six or seven guys" who can play anywhere from No. 2 to No. 6, Platt said.

Its depth helped the team to two 6-3 victories over defending champion Chapman, which is struggling this season to make up for the graduation of singles champion Miles Walker and No. 3 singles player Paul Charlesworth. The Panthers also have a new coach; Steve Clark has replaced Mike Edles, who left for Cal State Hayward.

Senior Olivier Amerlinck has filled Chapman's top singles spot very well, and he should contend for the singles championship. He also teams with junior Allen Junio to form a highly ranked doubles tandem.

Rollins, which lost to Chapman in the semifinals last year, is always a contender with coach Norm Copeland at the helm. The dean of Division II coaches posted his 600th career victory this season and guided the Tars to their 11th straight Sunshine State Conference title.

Copeland has a veteran squad that is led by seniors Rolf Bonnell, Don Martin, Barry Pelts and Andy Platt. Pelts teamed with Robert Green last season to win the doubles championship. With Green gone this season, Pelts and Dan Sallick rated fourth in doubles in the ITCA midseason rankings.

Championship Profile

Event: Division II men's tennis.

Field: Eight six-man squads will compete for the team title, and 64 singles players and 32 doubles teams will compete for titles.

Automatic qualification: None.

Defending champion: Chapman won its third title in four years by defeating Hampton, 5-2, in the finals.

Schedule: Southwest Baptist will host the championships May 15-21 at the Four Seasons Tennis Resort in Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri.

The NCAA News coverage: Complete results will appear in the May 24 issue of the News.

Contenders: Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Chapman, Hampton, Rollins, Southwest Baptist, UC Riverside, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville.

Championships notes: California schools have won or shared the team title 17 times in the 26-year history of the tournament, including the last four crowns. Southern Illinois-Edwardsville has won the most team titles—seven in a row, beginning in 1978...Chapman has advanced to the finals in the last four tournaments, winning three times...The last individual to repeat as champion was Ken Flach of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, who won his third straight singles title and second straight doubles title in 1983.

round but couldn't sweep the doubles and ended up with a 5-4 loss. As of April 28, Stanford is the only team that has beaten Florida.

Florida's strong showing on its home courts indicates it may have the best chance of defeating Stanford at the Division I championships, which will be at Gainesville. The second-ranked Lady Gators are led by all-America sophomore Nicole Arendt, who is ranked ninth in singles; sophomore Holly Danforth, and freshman Andrea Berger. The doubles lineup is especially deep, led by the sixth-ranked team of Arendt and Siobhan Nicholson.

If coach Bill Zaima's UCLA team can get healthy in time for the championships, it could surprise both Stanford and Florida. "In order to win, we have to be able to field our strongest team, which is something we haven't been able to do all season," he said. "Because of our injuries, we're kind of an unknown factor coming in. But if we don't get healthy, it'll be a struggle."

The Bruins' top singles player at the beginning of the season, Kirsten Dreyer, suffered a rotator cuff injury that has limited her strictly to doubles play. Zaima is hoping to have her healthy enough by tournament time to play No. 5 or 6 singles. "Just having Kirsten in the lineup really makes us a much stronger team," he said.

To make matters worse, defending doubles champion Stella Sampras has been injured for nearly half the season and all-America Jessica Emmons was out when the Bruins lost to California.

Brogan's California squad also has been beleaguered by injuries this year. One of the key injuries was to freshman Lisa Albano, the team's second-best singles player, who missed most of March with a sprained knee.

"Considering our injury problems, we've played really well this season," Brogan said. "The rest of the group has done a great job filling in for those players who have been hurt."

The Golden Bears' lineup is anchored by Albano and No. 1 singles player Karen Shin, the three-time all-America.

Georgia joins Florida as the Southeastern Conference's contenders for the team title. The Lady Bulldogs, fourth in the latest ITCA rankings, have lost twice to Florida this season, but both matches were 5-4 affairs.

'88 runner-up

last year to eventual singles champion Neal Occomy of Brandeis.

Sophomore Scott Flippin-Read and junior Larry Gewer lead a Washington (Maryland) team that narrowly lost to UC Santa Cruz in last year's semifinals. The young tandem also advanced to the semifinals of the doubles championship and is the top-rated doubles team in the country for the second season in a row.

The two also have maintained their lofty singles rankings throughout the season. Gewer is ranked second in Division III and Flippin-Read ninth.

The coaches of these top teams will be keeping a close eye on four-time national champion Kalamazoo. Coach George Acker always has his players ready for tournament play and this year's tournament will be held on the Hornets' home courts.

Occomy can expect a difficult time trying to become the first Division III player to win back-to-back singles crowns. The four-time all-America lost his No. 1 ranking this season to Pat Guerry of Sewanee (University of the South). The top spot in the polls has been taken by junior Paul Cross of Pomona-Pitzer.

Franke sees the singles field this way: "I don't think there's any one player you can pick as a clear favorite. It's a well-balanced field. The title will go to the youngster who has a great tournament—whoever is hot those three days."

In the doubles field, the three clear favorites are Flippin-Read and Gewer, Occomy and Ian Murray of Brandeis, and Matthews and Morris of Washington and Lee.

Report shows injury trends in Association's winter sports

Data from 1988-89 winter sports are featured in the second of three reports on injury trends being compiled this year by the NCAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports.

The winter report reflects data collected for wrestling, men's ice hockey, men's and women's basketball, and men's and women's gymnastics. A report on fall sports was published in the February 1 issue of The NCAA News, and a third report will be published following the spring sports season.

The data are collected through the Association's Injury Surveillance System (ISS) from a representative sample of NCAA member institutions. The resulting data summaries are reviewed by the Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports, which seeks to reduce injury rates through suggested rules changes, additional protective equipment or changes in coaching techniques.

"The information contained in this (winter sports) summary must be evaluated under the definitions and methodology outlined for the NCAA Injury Surveillance System," said Randall W. Dick, NCAA assistant director of sports sciences, who noted that there is no common definition of injury, measure of severity or evaluation of exposure in literature on athletics injury.

"No statistical analyses of these data have been performed. This information represents a descriptive reflection of injury tendencies in these sports from the past season," Dick said.

Exposure and injury data were submitted weekly by athletics trainers at institutions selected to represent a cross section of the NCAA membership. The institutions, which were selected from the three divisions of the Association and the four geographic regions of the country, composed a nine percent sample of institutions sponsoring a sport.

"The resulting data should be representative of the total population of NCAA institutions," Dick said.

He added that it is important to note that the system does not identify every injury that occurs at the institutions in a particular sport; rather, it collects a sampling that is representative of a cross section of NCAA institutions.

A reportable injury is defined as one that occurred as a result of participation in an organized intercollegiate practice or game, one that required immediate medical attention by an athletics trainer or physician, and one that resulted in restriction of the student-athlete's participation for one or more days beyond the day of the injury.

Each injury was described in detail, including type of injury, body part injured, severity of injury, type of field, field condition and special equipment used by the participant.

The data refer to an "athlete exposure," which is one athlete participating in a practice or game where he or she is exposed to the possibility of an athletics injury.

For example, five practices involving 60 participants and one game involving 40 participants would total 340 athlete exposures for a particular week.

Also offered is the "injury rate," which is a ratio of the number of injuries in a particular category to the number of athlete exposures in that category. This value is multiplied by 1,000 to produce an injury rate per 1,000 athlete exposures.

For example, six reportable injuries during a period of 563 athlete exposures would give an injury rate of 10.7 injuries per 1,000 athlete exposures (six divided by 563 and then multiplied by 1,000).

Additional information about the ISS and the following data can be obtained from Dick at the national office.

The results of the winter report, by sport:

Wrestling—31 teams (11 percent)—practice injury rate, 7.1 (per 1,000 A-E); match injury rate, 29.2 (per 1,000 A-E); total injury rate (practice and matches), 9.5 (per 1,000 A-E); percent of injuries occurring in practices—67 percent, matches—33 percent; top three body parts injured (percent of all injuries): knee—26 percent, shoulder—15 percent, face—nine percent; top three types of injury (percent of all injuries): sprain—32 percent, strain—18 percent, infection—12 percent.

Men's basketball—65 teams (nine percent)—practice injury rate, 4.0 (per 1,000 A-E); game injury rate, 8.7 (per 1,000 A-E); total injury rate (practice and games), 4.9 (per 1,000 A-E); percent of injuries occurring in practices—64 percent, games—35 percent; top three body parts injured (percent of all injuries): ankle—31 percent, knee—14 percent, upper leg—seven percent; top three types of injury (percent of all injuries): sprain—39 percent, strain—19 percent, contusion—10 percent.

Women's basketball—64 teams (nine percent)—practice injury rate, 4.6 (per 1,000 A-E); game injury rate, 9.4 (per 1,000 A-E); total injury rate (practice and games), 5.6 (per 1,000 A-E); percent of injuries occurring in practices—63 percent, games—37 percent; top three body parts injured (percent of all injuries): ankle—26 percent, knee—20 percent, lower back—six percent; top three types of injury (percent of all injuries): sprain—36 percent, strain—15 percent, contusion—eight percent.

Ice hockey—23 teams (18 percent)— practice injury rate, 2.3 (per 1,000 A-E); game injury rate, 15.4 (per 1,000 A-E); total injury rate (practice and games), 5.5 (per 1,000 A-E); percent of injuries occurring in practices—31 percent, games—68 percent; top three body parts injured (percent of all injuries): shoulder—17 percent, knee—16 percent, pelvis-hip-groin—10 percent; top three types of injury (percent of all injuries): sprain—23 percent, contusion—22 percent, strain—16 percent.

Men's gymnastics—seven teams (15 percent)—practice injury rate, 4.9 (per 1,000 A-E); match injury rate, 16.0 (per 1,000 A-E); total injury rate (practice and match), 5.5 (per 1,000 A-E); percent of injuries occurring in practices—81 percent, match—19 percent; top three body parts injured (percent of all injuries): shoulder—14 percent, ankle—13 percent, wrist—nine percent; top three types of injury (percent of all injuries): sprain—35 percent, strain—26 percent, contusion—13 percent.

Women's gymnastics—17 teams (15 percent)—practice injury rate, 6.5 (per 1,000 A-E); match injury rate, 25.6 (per 1,000 A-E); total injury rate (practice and match), 7.9 (per 1,000 A-E); percent of injuries occurring in practices—77 percent, match—23 percent; top three body parts injured (percent of all injuries): ankle—19 percent, knee—19 percent, lower leg—13 percent; top three types of injury (percent of all injuries): strain—27 percent, sprain—26 percent, stress fracture—eight percent.

Questions/Answers

Readers are invited to submit questions to this column. Please direct any inquiries to The NCAA News at the NCAA national office.

Q May I report information about possible NCAA rules violations to the NCAA enforcement staff and remain anonymous?

A Yes. Information is reported anonymously to the NCAA enforcement staff in writing, by telephone and in person and often assists the investigative staff in identifying other sources who would be willing to report information on the record. It should be emphasized that only information from sources who are willing to be identified to the institution involved can be presented by the NCAA in an effort to prove its cases, but anonymous information can alert the enforcement staff to possible problems or possible investigative leads that otherwise would remain unknown. Information from anonymous sources is carefully evaluated to ensure that it is reasonably reliable before the enforcement staff would begin a preliminary inquiry.

Scoring

7.97 made in 20.84 attempts, and in 1987, 7.00 in 18.25.

Three-point accuracy has gone down as more players shoot more of them. It was 38.4 in 1987, when many coaches restricted them to one or two players, then 38.2 percent a year ago. This year, it dropped to 37.6.

In free-throw accuracy, a figure that has changed little in the last 20 years, it was 69.1 percent this year vs. 68.9 a year ago.

The Big Eight Conference, the national scoring leader for the five seasons ending with 1988, led again in 1989 at 85.45 points per game. That is far above the national average of 75.72 per team per game. Almost four points back is the Atlantic Coast Conference, 81.51 to 81.45 over the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, then the Southwestern Athletic Conference 81.29, the Sun Belt Conference 80.70 and the Big Ten Conference (the midseason leader) 79.81.

The Big Ten leads in field-goal accuracy at 50.49 percent to 49.71 for the ACC, the five-year leader through 1988, with the Big Eight third at 49.42.

In three-point accuracy, the Big Ten leads at 40.91 percent, the American South Conference is second at 40.86 and the Southern Conference third at 39.89.

In most three-pointers made per game, it is the Missouri Valley Conference on top at 5.18, narrowly edging the Southland Conference and SWAC, tied at 5.15.

The East Coast Conference led in free-throw accuracy at 72.53 percent, with the Mid-American Conference second at 71.94 and Big Ten third at 71.12.

School to seek NAIA membership

Oral Roberts University is withdrawing from the NCAA and will seek membership in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The decision will affect 14 men's and women's sports teams at the school.

Roberts, the 71-year-old television evangelist, said in March his ministry had to raise $11 million by graduation day May 6 or creditors would "start dismantling" the 24-year-old school and the City of Faith Medical Center.

"This is a financial decision,"

Roberts said in a prepared statement May 2. "We have been in a life-and-death struggle to maintain the university with financial integrity.

"In line with other necessary cutbacks in other departments to safeguard the academic quality and spiritual commitment of ORU, the board of regents and I, the president, feel we cannot justify the expenditure for athletics at the Division I level."

Officials said lower travel costs and the possibility of dropping some sports required for NCAA membership could save money.

Legislation and Interpretations Committee minutes

Acting for the NCAA Council, the Legislation and Interpretations Committee:

Awards

1. Commercial sponsor and American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) "Coaches' Choice" College Football Player of the Year award. Reviewed the application of NCAA Bylaws 12.1.2 and 16.1.3.4 and a previous committee interpretation (reference: LIC 87-23.2) to scholarship awards for student-athletes and their institutions, and noted that the proposed AFCA "Coaches' Choice" award could be administered under current legislation if it is based primarily on team (rather than individual) performance, and the individual student-athlete recipient is not named in conjunction with the administration of the institutional scholarship award; agreed to ask the Council to sponsor legislation that would permit corporate sponsors to award scholarships in the names of student-athletes to the institutions they represent, provided such awards receive prior Council approval.

Financial aid

2. Baccalaureate Degree Completion Program (BDGP) as exempted financial aid.

Conference No. 6
March 30, 1989

Agreed that no authority exists under the provisions of Bylaws 15.2.4 and 15.1.1 to permit a student-athlete to exempt financial assistance under the special U.S. government entitlement called the Baccalaureate Degree Completion Program (BDGP); recommended that the Council ask the NCAA Committee on Financial Aid and Amateurism to consider revising the list of government grants exempted under this legislation.

Commercial logos and trademarks

3. Use of slogan in a commercial sponsor's trademark or logo. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 12.5.1.1 and a previous committee interpretation (reference: LIC 87-11.7), and agreed that a commercial sponsor's slogan may be used in conjunction with an institutional promotion when the slogan is part of the commercial sponsor's officially registered trademark (e.g., Pizza Hut - Making it Great).

Improper inducements

4. Prospective student-athlete receiving institutional gifts. Affirmed a previous committee interpretation (reference: LIC 87-13.9) and an NCAA Recruiting Committee recommendation that a prospective student-athlete could receive an institutional promotional item during a visit to a member institution only if such an item is provided (for reasons unrelated to athletics recruiting) to members of the general public who visit the institution's campus.

Playing and practice seasons—contest or date of competition

5. Determination of outside competition. Reviewed the provisions of Bylaw 17.8.4.1.1 and 17.8.4.1.2 and a previous committee interpretation (reference: LIC 87-22.4), noting that a member institution shall be considered to have utilized a date of competition in a sport if one or more student-athletes participate on behalf of the institution on a particular date; confirmed that in determining whether a member institution has utilized a date of competition or participated in a contest for its varsity team in a sport, a varsity event shall be defined as one in which at least 50 percent of the individuals representing the institution in the contest participate primarily on the varsity level; agreed that this interpretation would apply to all sports that are subject to playing-season restrictions.

Proposal No. 111—major junior A ice hockey

6. Effective date of 1989 Convention proposal No. 111. Confirmed the staff interpretation that inasmuch as the effective date of Proposal No. 111 amending Bylaw 12.2.3.2.4 is immediate, the new standard would affect those individuals who participated in major junior A ice hockey subsequent to the effective date (January 11, 1989).

Rules books, posters and proceedings available

Four new editions of rules books, two more commemorative sports posters and the proceedings from the 1989 NCAA Convention will be available for purchase from the Association in May.

Official Read-Easy Football Rules, 1989 NCAA Football Rules and Interpretations, 1989 NCAA Water Polo Rules, and 1989 NCAA Men's and Women's Soccer Rules are due for delivery this month.

Official Read-Easy Football Rules, an abridged version of NCAA Football Rules and Interpretations, sells for $1.50; all other rules books are $3.

The 1989 edition of NCAA Soccer Rules is the first combined issue of men's and women's rules.

Sports posters commemorating the NCAA Men's and Women's Outdoor Track and Field Championships and the 1989 National Collegiate and Division III Women's Lacrosse Championships also are available. The four-color posters, two in a series of 28 commemorative championships posters published by the Association, sell for $7 each.

The 1989 Convention Proceedings contains a verbatim transcript of all business sessions, the Presidents Commission National Forum and the honors luncheon.

The price of the Convention Proceedings is $6 for members and $12 for nonmembers.

To receive an order form for any of the Association's more than 50 publications or The NCAA News, call or write: NCAA Publishing, P.O. Box 1906, Mission, Kansas 66201; 913/831-8300. First-class postage is an additional $2 per publication.

Summer leagues approved

An additional 17 summer basketball leagues have been approved for student-athlete participation, bringing to 113 the number that has been certified by the NCAA Council.

Other lists of approved summer leagues appeared in the April 12, April 19 and April 26 issues of The NCAA News.

Questions concerning the application process or the requirements for NCAA approval of summer leagues should be directed to Louis A. Onofrio, legislative assistant, at the NCAA national office.

Following are the 12 men's and five women's leagues recently approved for participation.

Men's leagues

Kansas Kansas City Metro Summer

League, Kansas City. Michigan Metro Amateur Sports, Detroit; Douglass Community Association SBL, Kalamazoo. Minnesota Augsburg College SBL, Minneapolis. New Mexico City of Hobbs Summer Recreation Program, Hobbs. North Carolina Charlotte North Carolina Jewish Community Center Pro-Am League, Charlotte.

Ohio Hamilton Summer League, Hamilton; Catholic Club Men's Basketball League, Toledo. Pennsylvania Quality Hill Basketball League, Nanticoke; South Williamsport Three-Man League, South Williamsport. Virginia Franklin Recreation Department SBL, Franklin. Wisconsin Waukesha SBL, Waukesha.

Women's leagues

Michigan Metro Amateur Sports, Detroit. Minnesota Augsburg College SBL, Minneapolis. New Jersey Franklin Women's SBL, Franklin. New Mexico City of Hobbs Summer Recreation Program, Hobbs. Ohio Cincinnati Blue Chip League, Cincinnati.

Women

does seem headed back to the all-time high of 139.4 in 1984, but only because of the three-pointer. Field-goal accuracy from two-point range was 43.8 percent compared with 44.0 percent in 1988. That is proof of tougher defense, since those same players set accuracy records from three-point and free-throw range.

Accuracy from all ranges was 43 percent this year vs. 43.3 last year and 43.9 in 1987. This decrease is tied directly to more use of the three-pointer. Free-throw accuracy in 1989 reached a record 67.1 percent.

The trends show that the women's game simply is a different game than the men's game, with more finesse and less inside power. The three-pointer has helped the inside game for the men, but not for the women because clogged, rough inside play is much more of a problem for the men.

Women's shooting accuracy is only two percentage points behind the men in free throws (67.1 percent vs. 69.1) and 3.5 points behind in three-pointers (34.1 vs. 37.6), but 6.0 behind in two-point shots (43.8 vs. 49.8). The men, with much more height, get far more chances from point-blank range, balanced in part by the fact there are far more blocked shots in the men's game.

ACC a double leader

The Atlantic Coast Conference led all conferences in field-goal accuracy, 46.91 percent to 46.04 over the Metro Conference. The Southeastern Conference, 1988's leader, was third at 45.85.

In scoring, the ACC replaced the Southeastern Conference as the national leader with 78.6 points per game. The New South Women's Conference was second at 75.96; the Southland Conference third at 75.2.

In three-point accuracy, the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference set a national record by shooting 39.3 percent, edging the Southwest Athletic Conference at 39.29. The ACC was third at 36.84. The Southwestern Athletic Conference made the most three-pointers per game at 2.82, with the Big East Conference second at 2.62 and the ACC 2.56 for third.

Except for gymnastics, Houston Baptist to move to Division II

Houston Baptist University, in an economic move, plans to drop basketball for one year and permanently cut tennis, track and cross country from its intercollegiate athletics program.

A spokesman for the school, a charter member of the Trans American Athletic Conference, also said the school was dropping from NCAA Division I to Division II.

The Huskies' nationally ranked gymnastics program will be the only exception.

"This is basically a financial decision," President E. D. Hodo said April 26. "This has been a long, arduous task."

The decision to drop to Division II was made because less money is needed for travel and grants-in-aid. Hodo said the decision to leave gymnastics as the only Division I sport was simple.

"We feel we have a very good chance to win a national championship in gymnastics next year," he said.

Beginning in September, the school will compete in men's soccer, golf, rifle and baseball. The women's program will include volleyball, gymnastics, rifle and softball, United Press International reported.

Athletics Director Ed S. Billings said the athletics program operated on a $1 million budget last year and generated about $50,000 in revenues.

"This is the toughest recommendation I've ever had to make," said Billings, the school's athletics director for 22 years.

The cuts will affect 28 athletes and two coaches. Hodo said the university intends to take care of everyone involved.

He said the college also would honor contracts with two coaches for next year. Tennis coach Mario Rauch will become an instructor in the physical education department, and track coach Pollie Bibb will work as an assistant in the athletics department.

Basketball coach Tommy Jones is scheduled to succeed Billings as athletics director when Billings retires in May 1991. Jones will serve as assistant athletics director next year. He will double as athletics director and basketball coach when the program resumes.

Since there are few Division II schools in Texas, Hodo said the school will ask for a geographic waiver and also dually align itself with the NCAA and NAIA to fill its athletics schedules.

Gymnastics coach Hutch Dvorak said the announcement about the sports program was a bittersweet one.

"It seems we should be the proud survivors, but I feel kind of empty," Dvorak said. "I'm in shock, and I'm sorry this had to happen."

NBC gets TV rights to Olympics

A record $401 million contract giving NBC the U.S. television rights to the 1992 Olympics was signed April 27.

The agreement, reached in negotiations in New York last December, was signed by officials of the International Olympic Committee and the American network at the end of a four-day meeting of the IOC's executive board in Barcelona.

NBC's payment, which will be split among the IOC, the Barcelona organizing committee, sports federations and national Olympic committees around the world, tops the previous record of $309 million paid by ABC for last year's Winter Olympics in Calgary.

NBC paid about $300 million for the U.S. rights to last summer's Olympics in Seoul.

Gifts to colleges decline

New Federal tax laws and the 1987 stock market crash put the squeeze on gifts to colleges and universities, with contributions declining in 1987-88 for the first time in 13 years.

"The boomy days appear to be over, on campus as on Wall Street," concluded an annual survey released April 25 by the Council for Aid to Education.

It is estimated that gifts to higher education totaled $8.2 billion in the 1987-88 school year, down 3.5 percent for the $8.5 billion the previous year.

It was only the third year-to-year decline since the council began the survey in 1954-55, said spokesman Paul R. Miller.

But council officials noted the decline followed two years of explosive growth in contributions when alumni giving increased 25 percent a year.

"The increases we have been logging over the past decade, averaging about 12 percent annually, just could not be sustained indefinitely," said John R. Haire, the council's president.

Haire said donors apparently decided to make major gifts before January 1, 1987, anticipating changes in Federal tax law that made charitable contributions less advantageous.

The October 1987 stock market collapse further depressed the level of contributions, Haire said.

The council said it did not expect a quick return to double-digit annual increases, the Associated Press reported.

Alumni giving in 1987-88 totaled $2.04 billion, down 13 percent from the previous year's $2.34 billion. Nonalumni contributions were $1.93 billion, off 6.7 percent from $2.04 billion.

Corporate giving totaled $1.85 billion, up 1.9 percent from $1.82 billion a year ago. Foundation support rose 6.2 percent, from $1.5 billion to $1.6 billion. Religious organizations donated $197 million, 3.4 percent less than the $204 million a year earlier, and contributions from other sources totaled $574 million, up four percent from $552 million in 1986-87.

The survey results were based on data gathered from 1,142 colleges and universities that accounted for about 85 percent of all private gifts received by higher education institutions.

Binders available

Readers of The NCAA News are reminded that binders, which provide permanent, convenient storage of back issues of the paper, are available from the publishing department.

Each of the rugged, vinyl-covered binders holds 15 issues of the News. They may be purchased for $10 each, or two for $19. Orders should be directed to the circulation department at the national office (913/831-8300).

He was 29... Lester D. Gordon Jr., a football tailback at Ohio State during the mid-1970s, was shot to death April 2 by a police officer who was responding to a disturbance report. He was 32. Authorities said Gordon was shot when he pulled a toy gun from inside his jacket... Gene Overby, a football and basketball broadcaster for Wake Forest since 1972, died March 30 in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, following a lengthy illness. He was 51. Overby also was a former play-by-play announcer for Duke.

Otis Douglas, a former football linebacker at William and Mary who also coached three sports at the school, died March 21 in Kilmarnock, Pennsylvania, after a long illness. He was 77. Sixteen years after the end of his playing days at William and Mary, Douglas again donned the uniform to play four years for the Philadelphia Eagles. He also coached football at Arkansas, Drexel and Akron, in addition to serving as athletics director at Akron... Fred De Lano, a sports information director at Michigan during the 1940s and at Detroit during the 1950s, died February 24 in Huntington Beach, California, at age 72.

Freshman gets first college victory without throwing a pitch

Calvin College freshman pitcher Bryan Ganzevoort wasted little effort in earning his first collegiate victory. He didn't even have to throw a pitch.

After taking the loss in the first game of a twin bill against Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association opponent Hope College, Ganzevoort got the call late in the second game. He took the mound with two outs in the top of the seventh. His team was down, 8-7, and Hope had runners on first and second.

Ganzevoort's first move was to first, instead of to home, and he picked off the Hope runner to end the inning. Calvin scored twice in the bottom of the seventh to win, 9-8.

Apparently, Julie Croteau is not the first woman to play NCAA baseball, as some people thought.

John Arenberg was sports information at Webster University two years ago, when the St. Louis school's baseball team had an infielder named Perabo—Susan Perabo. She played in four games at second base, starting one of them.

Briefly in the News

Arenberg contacted the News after reading the feature on Croteau, who plays this season for St. Mary's College (Maryland).

Louisiana Tech University baseball coach Pat Patterson earned his 700th career victory April 11 when his Bulldogs defeated Jackson State University, 16-4. In his 22nd season at the school, Patterson's all-time coaching mark after the game was 700-423-2 (.622).

A baseball coaching milestone also was reached April 13 by West Georgia College's Archie White, who got his 600th career victory when the Braves defeated Shorter College, 14-8.

Coincidentally, the 21-year coach's triumph came at the expense of Shorter coach Mike Sansing, who was in a Braves uniform as a player when White collected victory No. 400 and was a graduate assistant coach at West Georgia when White claimed No. 500.

Doug Dickey, athletics director at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, has announced that $60,000 generated during the men's basketball team's participation in the Southeastern Conference tournament will be donated to the school's Library Endowment Fund. Another $25,000 will go to women's athletics to help pay for expenses related to the Lady Vols' trip to the NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Championship final in Seattle.

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, men's athletics officials were beaming as the winter sports season came to a close. Gopher teams finished among the nation's top 16 in five of the six NCAA winter sports that the school sponsors.

Minnesota's ice hockey team led the way by advancing to the Division I finals.

Bob Knight, head men's basketball coach at Indiana University, Bloomington, received the first Legends of Coaching Award at the April 18 basketball awards dinner cosponsored by Kodak and Street and Smith's Sports Group, which was held at New York's Downtown Athletic Club.

Also honored were University of Arizona student-athlete Sean Elliott and P. J. Carlesimo, head coach at Seton Hall University.

Trivia Time: According to recent Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Series rankings, 21 of the nation's current top 100 women's collegiate singles players hail from California. Which state is second in producing top-flight players? Answer later.

Yes, there is another coaching legend out there, according to Chris Barry, Hunter College sports information director.

After reading of DePaul University coach George Lott in the April 5 issue of The NCAA News, Barry jotted down a few of the accomplishments of Julia Jones-Pugliese, who recently completed her 33rd season as fencing coach at the school.

Among other things, Barry noted that Jones-Pugliese:

- In 1929 became the first National Intercollegiate Women's Fencing Association champion.
- Was a member of the 1932 U.S. Olympic team.
- Was the first woman fencing coach of a U.S. team, taking the American squad to the 1970 World University games in Turin, Italy.

• Has won national championships at two schools—New York University (1932, 1933 and 1938) and Hunter (1970).

• Is a member of the NYU, Hunter and Helms Foundation Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame.

Last September, a feature on Jones-Pugliese was distributed to newspapers through the Maturity News Service. The Wisconsin State Journal, in running the piece, used a headline that said, in part, "At age 80, she's the first lady of U.S. fencing."

Jones-Pugliese told writer Kim Dramer that as an NYU student in the 1920s, she was too short to play basketball. "Then one day, I read that the NYU fencing master had decided to begin a women's team," she told Dramer. "It sounded romantic, so I thought I'd give it a try."

Apparently, the romance has never left her relationship with the sport.

American Swimming Coaches Association officials have announced a $50,000 surprise gift from John E. duPont to create a reserve fund in memory of the late Gregory Jay Clark, an outstanding young triathlete prior to his death in January.

The fund will be administered by a committee composed of two current members of the association's board of directors and two prominent businessmen. "Our most pressing problem has been the lack of a reserve fund," said John Leonard, ASCA executive director. "This was a 30-year problem that Mr. du Pont has wiped out with one pass of his

"This is a stunning and very wonderful gift."

U.S. Sports Academy officials have announced plans to begin development of doctoral programs in cooperation with U.S. International University. The first offerings will be in sports management, and the academy will begin the program with a special presentation in San Diego during early June.

More information is available from the academy at One Academy Drive, Daphne, Alabama 36526 (telephone 205/626-3303).

Two milestones were observed during the 1989 Drake Relays, held April 28-29 in Des Moines, Iowa. Head starter Dick Ernst worked his last relays, ending a 22-year career with the meet. Ernst has worked 25 NCAA track championships, including the 1989 Division I indoor finals at Indianapolis.

Also, meet director Bob Ehrhart, Drake's track coach, celebrated his 20th anniversary as director of what is one of the nation's top regular-season track events.

"It has always been a great challenge to put the meet together," said Ehrhart. "But we take a lot of pride in the Drake Relays. When I first started here, we had 90 colleges competing. A couple of years, there were 205 colleges. So, the competition keeps getting stronger every year."

Men's and women's tennis players from the University of Pennsylvania have begun a series of drug-awareness clinics for elementary and junior high schools. The teams also have produced a poster in conjunction with the Maxwell Club's Fight Against Drugs (FAD) program that is being distributed to Philadelphia-area schools and youth centers.

"The response to the poster has been overwhelming," said Virgil Christian, Penn men's tennis coach. "The tennis (student-athletes) are very excited about getting started with the in-school programs, and we are hoping that it can make a difference in some kids' lives."

Salve Regina College soccer players Marielle van Noort, Chris Wondoloski and Barbara Ann Egan visited third graders at the Reynolds School in Bristol, Rhode Island, April 26 as part of a statewide substance-abuse-prevention program. The student-athletes are part of Salve Regina's newly formed Student-Athletes Against Substance Abuse Club.

After conquering the world of collegiate wrestling, heavyweight Carlton Haselrig of the University of Pittsburgh, Johnstown, is preparing to try a new sport—professional football.

Haselrig recently completed his college mat career at Pitt-Johnstown, where he won a total of six individual NCAA titles—three in Division II competition and three more in Division I.

The 6-2, 275-pound Haselrig was drafted in the 12th round of the recent National Football League draft by the Pittsburgh Steelers. According to USA Today, Haselrig will try to make the team as a defensive lineman—despite the fact that he hasn't played football since high school.

Trivia Answer: Illinois has produced seven of the top 100 women's college tennis players—second to California's 21.

State halts school's attempt to restore football

The Louisiana higher education governing board has ordered Southeastern Louisiana University to stop attempts aimed at restoring football and to make budget cuts in the school's athletics program.

Budget reductions could jeopardize the men's basketball program, Southeastern Louisiana President Warren Smith told the Associated Press.

"Certainly, it affects the entire athletics program," Smith said of the decision by the Board of Trustees for State Colleges and Universities.

Smith said he hoped to keep the effort to revive football going until June 30, but the board adopted a committee recommendation that the effort be stopped immediately.

Deep budget cuts could result in suspension of the men's basketball program, Smith said.

Smith said if Southeastern Louisiana should suspend its basketball program, the school would aim at reviving it within two years.

Athletics director Bob Brodhead, who was released by the school April 25, was spearheading a drive to return NCAA Division I football to the campus in 1990. The program was canceled because of budget problems after the 1985 season.

Brodhead had said he would make a revived football program self-sustaining.

This year, the university supplemented its $1.1 million athletics budget with a $400,000 loan to help football start-up efforts.

Administrative Vice-President Cecil Warren said $83,604 has been raised from outside sources. The athletics department already has spent its $1.1 million budget and has only $96,644 of the $400,000 loan remaining, he said.

Warren said the athletics department owes $174,795 in salaries for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30.

Killian to receive Bunn award

A past president of the Basketball Hall of Fame and a trustee since 1969, George E. Killian will be the recipient of the 17th annual John W. Bunn Award for his contributions to basketball.

The award is named for the late John W. Bunn, one of the founders of the Basketball Hall of Fame and former athletics director and basketball coach at Springfield College.

Killian, executive director of the National Junior College Athletic Association, has played a role in developing basketball in this country as well as in international competition.

Killian is a graduate of Ohio

Smith said 17 football players, all of whom were academically ineligible to compete this season, are currently on scholarship.

Northern University. He earned a master's in education at the State University of New York, Buffalo.

He has been an executive committee member of the U.S. Olympic Committee since 1967, a trustee of the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame since 1969 and a trustee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics since 1982.

Killian has served as vice-president, U.S. Olympic Administrative Committee; president, U.S. Collegiate Sports Council; president, Basketball Hall of Fame, and president of the Amateur Basketball Association of the USA.

State legislation relating to athletics

Second of three parts

This report summarizes legislation currently pending in state legislatures that could affect, or is otherwise of interest to, the intercollegiate athletics programs and student-athletes at NCAA member institutions.

The total report includes a list of 183 bills from 44 states. The report also includes 149 bills that have been introduced and 34 pending bills on which action has been taken since the last report (see February 8, 1989, issue of The NCAA News).

Newly introduced bills are marked with an asterisk. Pending bills discussed in the previous report on which no action has been taken do not appear in this report.

This report is based on data provided by the Information for Public Affairs on-line state legislation system as of April 18. The listed bills were selected for inclusion in this report from a larger pool of bills concerning sports, and they therefore do not necessarily represent all bills that would be of interest to individual member institutions. Bills pending in the District of Columbia Council and the legislatures in the U.S. territories are not available on-line and are not included.

The NCAA has not verified the accuracy or completeness of the information and is providing this summary as a service to members. For further information regarding a particular bill, members should contact the state legislature concerned.

As an overview, the table below summarizes the number of bills included in the total report by subject.

Anabolic steroids .....	50
Civil liability of coaches and sports officials .....	28
Athlete agents .....	17
Athletics trainers .....	11
Rules violations .....	9

As a result of approving three ancillary recommendations made as part of a report on the Association's championships drug-testing program, a new Subcommittee to Review Drug-Testing Ineligibility Sanctions was appointed.

The group has been directed to discuss the issue of team-ineligibility sanctions resulting from positive drug tests with conference commissioners at the June meeting of the Collegiate Commissioners Association. The issue also will be discussed at spring and summer meetings of NCAA member conferences.

The subcommittee will prepare recommendations for Executive Committee consideration in August with the intent of providing the membership with legislative alternatives for consideration at the 1990 Convention.

The Executive Committee also affirmed its interest in utilization of a legislative approach to the proposition and/or implementation of team-ineligibility sanctions. During review of this report and the recommendations, it was noted that a suspension of team-ineligibility sanctions that is in effect will expire at the end of the 1989-90 academic year.

Sports committees

Actions were taken on a number of recommendations from several NCAA governing sports committees. Highlights of those actions include (Note: Reports on recommendations regarding Division I women's volleyball and men's and women's fencing appear elsewhere in this issue of The NCAA News):

Soccer: The Executive Committee approved expansion of the Division I men's championship bracket from 24 to 28 teams. An expansion to 32 teams had been requested. Denied were bracket-expansion recommendations for the Division II men's and women's championships, and the Division III men's championship.

Track and field: The Executive Committee, after reviewing a report on championships field sizes and participation ratios in swimming and track, directed the Association's Men's and Women's Track and Field Committee to prepare for the August Executive Committee meeting a set of track and field qualifying standards for 1989-90 designed to achieve fields equal to the average number of participants in championships held over the past five years. Also approved was a recommendation that the field of participants for the Division I Women's Cross Country Championships be expanded from 136 to 184, effective with the 1989 championships.

Swimming and diving: As was the case in track, the Executive Committee directed the Men's and Women's Swimming and Diving Committee to provide in August qualifying standards for 1989-90 designed to achieve fields equal to the average number of participants in championships held over the past five years.

Division I-AA football: Georgia Southern College was approved as host for the 1989, 1990 and 1991 championships. The Executive Committee deferred until August action on a request to adjust the dates of the championship and directed the sports committee to conduct immediately a survey of athletics directors and conference officials to determine reaction to the proposed schedule changes.

Division II women's volleyball: Denied was a request that, effective with the 1989 championship, the finals be held at a predetermined site. The Executive Committee approved a recommendation that the championship be conducted one week earlier, effective with the 1990 tournament (i.e., regionals will be held November 23-24 instead of November 30-December 2, and finals will be held November 30-December 1 instead of December 7-

Other matters

The Executive Committee also took action on a number of other matters relating to championships, playing rules and the Association's annual Convention.

Adopted was a recommendation to establish varying levels of honorariums for institutions hosting various rounds of NCAA championships competition.

The Executive Committee took several actions after reviewing a report from sports committees with rules-making responsibilities. By sport, those actions included:

Men's water polo: Approval of a recommendation that the minimum depth of pools built after January 1, 1990, be seven feet.

Men's and women's soccer: The Executive Committee declined to approve a rule to prohibit "free substitution" and directed that a comprehensive review and study of the issue be undertaken. It approved addition of "incidental vulgar or profane language" to the list of players' actions to be penalized with a caution from the referee.

Football: Denied was a request to include in football playing rules effective for the 1991 season a prohibition against the use of "split crews" of officials. In taking this action, the Executive Committee noted that it is not appropriate for sports committees with rules-making responsibilities to propose changes in areas of game administration for which conferences have been responsible. And rather than approving a rule change to mandate use of a 25-second clock, effective in 1990, the Executive Committee directed the Football Rules Committee to include use of a 25-second clock as a recommendation.

Basketball: Approved was a men's and women's rule change that prohibits a band or any component thereof from playing while a game is in progress. Also approved was a men's rule change that requires use of a device to keep the ring attached to the backboard or support system if the backboard breaks.

Convention sites

Sites for the Association's annual Convention through 1992 were reaffirmed as follows:

1990 — Loews Anatole Hotel, Dallas, Texas.

1991 — Opryland Hotel, Nashville, Tennessee.

1992 — Anaheim Hilton, Anaheim, California.

In addition, the Executive Committee withdrew its approval of Nashville's Opryland Hotel as site for the 1994 Convention in order to explore other options.

The Executive Committee also moved to investigate ways of shortening the Convention.

A complete summary of all actions taken May 1 by the Executive Committee will be published later this month in The NCAA News.

Lawsuit settled

Former University of Wisconsin, Stevens Point, football coach D. J. LeRoy said he felt vindicated by an out-of-court settlement May 1 of a lawsuit he filed after he was released following an incident involving ineligible players.

LeRoy was dismissed May 12, 1988, after the school was forced to forfeit its entire 1987 season.

The settlement absolves LeRoy of any responsibility regarding the athletics eligibility of the two transfer players. The state also will pay him $40,000, the Associated Press reported.

Request for bigger travel party denied

The Association's Executive Committee turned down a request by the Division I Women's Volleyball Committee May 1 for an increase in size of the traveling party to the 1989 championship.

The volleyball committee had sought to increase from 17 to 19 persons the size of the official traveling parties for teams advancing to regionals and the finals.

The Executive Committee did approve a recommendation that the University of Maryland, College Park, serve as host for the 1990 championship December 13 and 15.

Meeting April 24-27 in Palm Springs, California, the volleyball committee voted to recommend that it be permitted to meet in person to select championship teams. The Executive Committee approved the request but modified it to specify that the meeting would be held annually in Kansas City.

The original recommendation sought a meeting in proximity to a majority of volleyball committee members.

The Executive Committee also approved a request for a waiver of Bylaw 31.7.2.1.5 (a) to enable the volleyball committee to conduct its annual April meeting at the site of the Division I championship.

The committee conducted its April 1988 meeting in Minneapolis, site of the 1988 championship. Committee members and the host institution (University of Minnesota, Twin Cities) staff found the meeting to be beneficial. The committee also suggested that the on-site meeting was a major factor in the success of the 1988 championship.

Denied by the Executive Committee was a request that the weekly Division I poll be expanded to include 25 teams. Twenty currently are ranked weekly.

The following conferences were recommended to receive automatic qualification for the 1989 championship, and the Executive Committee approved the request: Atlantic Coast Conference, Atlantic 10 Conference, Big Eight Conference, Big Sky Conference, Big Ten Conference, Big West Conference, Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference, High Country Athletic Conference, Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference, Mid-American Athletic Conference, Pacific-10 Conference, Southeastern Conference, Southland Conference, Southwest Athletic Conference and West Coast Athletic Conference.

Richmond gets CAA tournament through 1993

Colonial Athletic Association Commissioner Thomas E. Yeager announced April 28 an agreement to hold the league's postseason men's basketball tournament in Richmond, Virginia, through 1993.

"We are extremely excited about bringing our tournament to Richmond, site of the conference office," Yeager said. "The city will provide a wonderful location for our championship."

Yeager said Richmond was one of several sites considered. The tournament will be played in the Richmond Coliseum beginning next March.

Report aimed at helping trustees monitor athletics

A special report recently published by the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges suggests questions that university and college trustees should ask to ensure integrity in intercollegiate athletics.

Titled "What Trustees Should Know About Intercollegiate Athletics," the report is written by L. Jay Oliva, chancellor and executive vice-president for academic affairs at New York University.

The report offers responses to questions about recruitment, admissions, academic programs, campus life, student-athlete and coach relationships, schools' relations with their competitors, fiscal oversight, and institutional review for which trustees should seek answers at their own schools. A "special message" to Division III trustees also is included. "I offer the following advice to trustees," writes Oliva in his introduction to the report. "If you are not involved, get involved. If you are involved, be involved in a productive and informed way."

He continues, "By getting involved in your sports programs, you can protect, and even salvage, institutional relationships with parents, donors, taxpayers and the general public. Even more important, you can protect the lives and futures of the young men and women entrusted to your care.

Oliva adds that trustees even can play an "affirmative role" in overseeing athletics, stating that "a controlled athletics program that reflects your institution's values can be one of the finest vehicles for communicating institutional strength."

The publication is part of efforts by the Association of Governing Boards "to help educate and motivate trustees to action" in intercollegiate athletics, says AGB President Robert L. Gale in his foreword to the report.

The report, along with a series of educational programs and articles in the association's bimonthly magazine, stems from a 1985 resolution by AGB directors that called for trustees "to support college presidents in their efforts to regain control over athletics and to share public responsibility for the quality of educational and athletics programs on their campuses."

The address for the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges is One Dupont Circle, Suite 400, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Ratings adjusted

The NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Championship final between Seton Hall and Michigan drew a 21.3 rating and a 33 share, according to revised statistics released May 2 by CBS.

Originally, CBS said the game had 21.2 rating and a 32 share. The revision ties it for the fifth highest-rated championship game with 1975's final between Kentucky and UCLA.
